

Welcome to Stuttgart!

You want to know
what we are protesting against?

Against the underground
main station (under construction)

“Stuttgart 21”:

- It has only half as many platforms as the one we already have.
- No one may survive in it in the event of a fire.
- During heavy rainfall, it acts like a dam to prevent the water from draining away.
- It is intended to create space for a new urban district – in the middle of Stuttgart's most important fresh air corridor.
- The infrastructure of the terminus station is planned to be removed - even though the existing station is one of the most efficient in Germany.
- The construction of the new one has cost 11 billion – so far. These billions are needed to repair the deficits of the railways all over Germany.

We are protesting against this in Stuttgart!

- every Monday
- More than 700 Mondays (in a row) – since 2009
- at times, a hundred thousand

We have a better idea than "Stuttgart 21":

- The tunnels that have already been built should not be used for trains, but for fully automated goods transport from the suburbs to the city center!
- Modernize the above-ground "old" terminal station!
- Convert the underground station currently under construction into a central bus station directly under the tracks, a multi-storey car park for cars and bicycles, bicycle repair shops and the like
